

It was Sunday on Wake Island—late Saturday here—when President Truman and General MacArthur held their historic conference.

To that remote Pacific isle each had gone swiftly by air—the one, head of both American civil government and our fighting forces; the other, the veteran military leader whose strategy may be the deciding factor for peace or war.

Truman and MacArthur have not always agreed—nothing personal, of course; merely the natural clash between presidential advisors back in Washington and a field general. So they got together this week-end on Wake Island. What they said in a joint statement at the end of the conference was this: "We are fully aware of the dangers which lie ahead, but we are confident that we can surmount these dangers with three assets which we have."

"First, unqualified devotion to peace."

"Second, unity with our fellow peace-loving members of the United Nations."

"Third, our determination and growing strength."

There is a statement that discloses real teamwork—Truman, head of the United States, and MacArthur, an authority on Asiatic politics and war, combining on a single utterance to show the enemy that the United States and the United Nations are going to see this thing through until the world has secured a lasting peace.

In the final analysis our country has with military arms bolstered the United Nations in a fateful moment—and now, more than at any time since the end of World War II, we can see daylight on the long and tortuous road to peace.

John J. Raskob died Sunday at his home in Maryland. He is best known in our own section as the financial man behind the campaign of the late Al Smith for president. But that political controversy was almost the least important item of his career.

Raskob was the man who developed the idea that automobiles ought to be sold on the monthly installment plan. Which makes him one of the most important figures of our machine civilization.

Engineers make automobiles. And salesmen sell them. But the efforts of both would have gone for naught if someone hadn't come along with a financial design to break down thousands of dollars into monthly payments.

Raskob's automobile idea spread to appliances and machinery and merchandise of all descriptions. You might say he was as much the father of the assembly-line technique as any engineer or factory owner who ever lived—for what the others manufactured he placed in the hands of the people and thus assured tremendous growth and prosperity.

Communists Take Over East Germany

Berlin, Oct. 16 —(AP)—East Germany surrendered unconditionally to Communist dictatorship today, five years after the fall of Adolf Hitler's Nazi Reich.

Pledged to unwavering loyalty to Moscow, Red leaders were swept back into office by more than 97 per cent of the voters at Sunday's election, it was officially announced.

The unopposed triumph of the Communist-led "national front" secured politically a Soviet bastion in the center of Europe that only war or internal Russian revolution might conceivably destroy.

It was engineered by the most fantastic German voting since Hitler claimed 100 per cent endorsement for his Nazi Reichstag in 1933.

Russia's 20 occupation divisions were on the alert and 195,000 Communist-officered German Police stood guard to assure unopposed victory.

But nowhere in the Soviet zone—as some 13,000,000 citizens virtually goose-stepped to the polls—was there a single verified case of resistance.

Even the Western powers dropped their anti-vote campaign. Fearful of police terror against East Germans who attempted to dissent.

"Deceive your deceivers—vote for the national front" was the despairing counsel beamed to the Soviet zone populace by the official American radio station rias.

The capitulation was complete. Among those who obeyed the Communist order to cast open, unmarked ballots on which appeared only the Red parliamentary list, were thousands of Protestant pastors and Catholic priests and nuns.

Like automats, the East German masses paraded past the election boxes, dropping in unfolded scraps of paper which sealed their political fate.

Cotton States to Fight Export Clampdown

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 16 —(AP)—With dollars at stake, outraged cotton belt farm groups are forming ranks to fight the federal clampdown on cotton exports.

A committee formed here by the Mid-South Cotton Growers has a date for Washington tomorrow or Wednesday to demand that the order limited cotton exports to 2,000,000 bales through March 31 be lifted.

The committee represents growers in Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. And reinforcements are expected from growers in Nevada, Arizona, California, Texas and New Mexico.

What set off the explosion? Money. Growers figure the export cutback makes cotton more plentiful here, drives the price down and takes dollars out of their pockets.

The agriculture department said the move was to safeguard the U. S. cotton supply and make sure enough was on hand to meet an emergency.

But the cotton growers protest meeting here yesterday charged the action was ordered by "higher ups" and was designed to help the consumer at the expense of the grower.

Five congressmen from the mid-south area attended the meeting here and added their voices to the demand for relief.

They were: Representatives Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), Paul Jones (D-Mo.), Tom G. Abernethy (D-Miss.), E. C. Gathings (D-Ark.) and Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss.). Whitten, to compromise plans suggested, contended the "simple plan would be to have the order set aside."

He suggested the committee "learn what was behind the order" and then try for concessions if outright revocation could not be had.

Telephone Co. in Plea to Hunters

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company sent out an S. O. S. to hunters today in hopes of preventing unnecessary disruptions of long distance service.

"Broken telephone lines, shattered insulators and the loss of hundreds of telephone calls result from damage by gunfire in the hunting season each year," P. J. Poe, manager for the telephone company, pointed out today in making a plea to hunters to be careful when shooting birds in the vicinity of telephone lines.

"More than 320 wires were broken by stray shots last year in Arkansas alone," the manager said. "Many glass insulators were smashed, and cables carrying many pairs of wires were pierced by bullets."

During a hunting month, it's not unusual to have more than 2,000 hours of talking time lost as a result of gunfire," according to Poe.

"It would help a lot if we could just explain to hunters why they should be careful in the vicinity of telephone lines. Even if a bullet or shot only nicks the wire, when cold weather comes the wire contracts and the added stress may cause it to break."

"A stray shot may cut off service on hundreds of lines if the shot hits a cable carrying up to several thousand individual wires."

"And those shiny glass insulators on the crossarms of pole lines," he continued, "are tempting targets for a .22. Smashing one of them breaks the wire too."

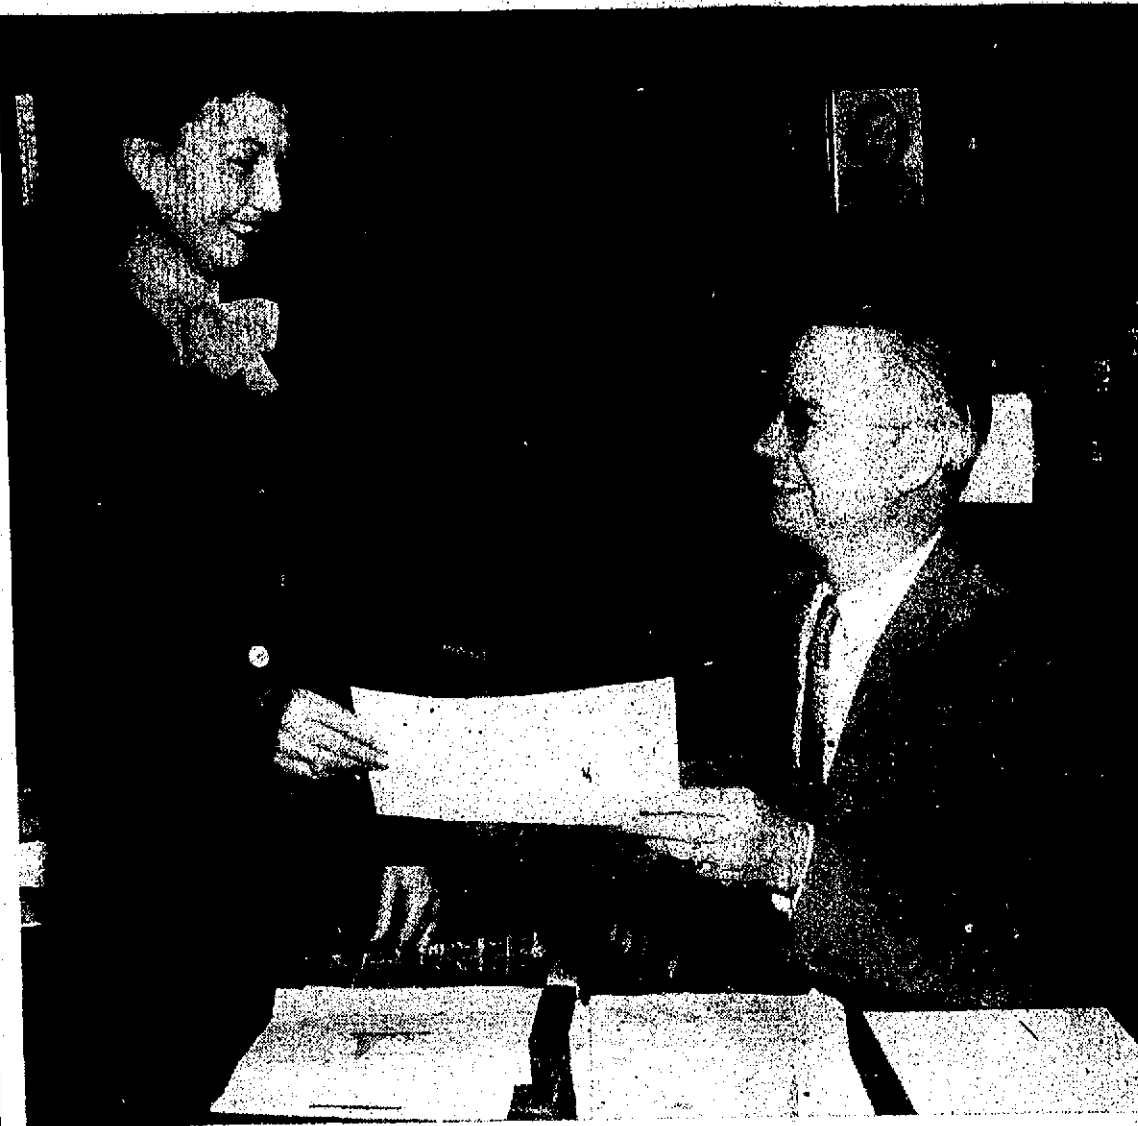

According to the manager, gunshot interruptions dropped considerably during World War II. However, in the postwar years there has been a steady increase in service interruptions from this source.

Hardware and sporting goods merchants are cooperating with the telephone company in asking hunters to use care when hunting near telephone lines, Poe said.

"We don't believe that hunters deliberately try to hit the wires or cables," the manager said, "and probably no sportsman would shoot at a sitting bird on a wire. I guess they just don't stop to think that a hasty shot might cause serious damage to telephone lines and disrupt long distance service."

He further emphasized that there is always a possibility that the call disrupted as a result of gunfire may be one of utmost importance—for example, a call for an ambulance from the scene of a major auto collision where minutes may mean the difference between life and death.

"Since the results of service disruptions can be so grave," he concluded, "all we can do is ask hunters to please be careful when shooting at birds in the vicinity of telephone wires."

Eight Persons Lose Lives in Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Eight persons lost their lives in weekend Arkansas accidents. Four Negro children were killed when a trailer truck crashed into the rear of an old automobile in which they and four other members of their family were riding near Blytheville Saturday night.

Dead were Edna and Mabel Jones, each about 12, and two of their brothers, James, 8, and William, 6.

The parents, Henry and Lavada Jones, and one other child were injured. A sixth child escaped injury.

The truck driver, quoted by police as saying he was blinded by lights of an approaching car, was held on an open charge.

Three others also died in traffic mishaps.

W. R. Evans, 74, of Near Lepanto was injured fatally when he was struck down by a truck while walking on the Lepanto-Spear Lake road.

Separate accidents near Fort Smith claimed the lives of Mrs. Milly Smith, 54, of San Amoniti, Tex., and Fred Moore, 51, of Hartford, Ark.

A seven-year-old Negro boy, Charles Edward Johnson, was killed when he was caught in a conveyor belt at the Southern Cotton Oil company mill in Little Rock. He was visiting his father at work.

End of Korea Fighting Only a Matter of Weeks Military Men Predict

Defense Hopes for Large Medical Pool

Washington, Oct. 16 —(AP)—The defense department hoped today's first medical draft registration will provide a pool of from 5,000 to 10,000 men from which it can induct the 1,522 doctors, dentists and veterinarians it wants by the end of January.

Under the medical draft law passed by congress, men through 50 can be drafted. Present plans, however, call for induction of only a few in the lower age groups.

Draft boards today registered young doctors, dentists and veterinarians who were:

1. Students in the army special training or similar Navy V-12 program during World War II, and who served less than 21 months in one of the services or the public health service after completing their medical education.

2. Deferred from service in World War II to obtain medical, dental or veterinary degrees.

Estimates of the number involved range from 5,000 to 10,000. Other medical men under 51 will register at later dates until Jan. 18, when the registration task is to be completed. No provision has yet been made for the registration of pharmacists, optometrists, osteopaths, X-ray technicians and other medical specialists.

Men called up in the doctor's draft will serve not more than 21 months under present regulations. Medical men whom their draft boards find acceptable for military service will be placed in Class 1-A immediately.

A special category, IVXDA0—to be drafted right along with the 1-A's, has been set up for conscientious objectors willing to perform non-combat services.

Conscientious objectors who say they cannot perform any type of military service whatever will be placed in Class 4-B, and this class will be the first to be looked over when the 1-A's and 1-A's are used up.

Next will come Class 1-D—members of reserve units. After them will come the 2-A's, medical men whose services in their community are found to be necessary to the maintenance of health, and who cannot be replaced.

It is not anticipated that the present needs of the armed forces will make it necessary to dip into these classes.

Installment Plan Pioneer Succumbs

Centerville Md., Oct. 16 —(AP)—John J. Raskob, behind-the-scenes political figure of the '30s and a pioneer in the automobile installment-buying plan, died at his estate here yesterday. He was 71.

A requiem mass will be offered at 11 a. m. Wednesday if his wife, Mrs. Helena S. Raskob, arrives by that time from Arizona. If not, the mass probably will be delayed pending her arrival.

As a former chairman of the finance committee of General Motors, and associate of the DU Pons of Wilmington, Raskob was one of the country's leading industrialists.

But he was most remembered for his political experiences. He dropped out of his business positions in 1928 to back Al Smith in his unsuccessful bid for the presidency.

Despite the setback, he remained a power in the Democratic party—and one of its chief contributors—until 1932, when factional breaks resulted in his assuming a more minor role.

Raskob is credited with authoring the plan for car manufacturers to finance car purchases on the installment plan.

His eastern shore farm—a show-place—has been host to both industrial and political hierarchy for 20 years. Several guests were down from New York for the weekend when he suddenly became ill and died before a summoned physician could arrive. Death was due to a heart attack.

Survivors other than his wife include three sons, seven daughters, a brother, Will Raskob of Wilmington, and two sisters, Mrs. G. Ray Kaiser and Mrs. Gertrude A. Hall, both of Wilmington.

By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, Oct. 16 —(AP)—Military circles here speculate generally that the Korean war will be over in a matter of weeks.

The expectation that major fighting will end after United Nations forces drive into the North Korean Communist capital of Pyongyang. Spearheads were within 40 miles of that city today.

A slow and perhaps lengthy cleanup campaign to eliminate holdout fragments of the North Korean Red army probably will continue after the close of the main military operation.

Tokyo circles have been optimistic as to a quick end of the fighting since the Sept. 15 landing at Inchon pulled apart the Communist army. This opinion has been voiced repeatedly by field commanders who have said the North Koreans definitely are beaten.

Pyeongyang is considered here to be the last major military and political objective of the United Nations overland offensive. But its expected capture probably will not mark the highwater mark of the Allied drive northward.

Army commanders have said often that their job is to destroy the North Korean military force and in doing so to hunt out its remnants, wherever they might be.

How close the chase will take Allied troops to the explosive borders of China and Siberia is not known.

South Korean troops were first to cross the 38th parallel, the arbitrary boundary between North and South Korea, in pursuit of the broken Red army that invaded South Korea June 25. This could mean that Republican forces will be used to make the closest penetrations to the Communist borders touching Korea on the northwest and north.

There is little expectation in Tokyo that any important Soviet or North Korean officials will be found in Pyongyang. An escape route is still open for the North Koreans although main highways and railroads are under regular Allied air attack.

President Truman Sunday reiterated earlier statements that American troops would be withdrawn from Korea as soon as possible after the fighting ends. This in itself will be a prolonged and complicated operation and probably will take months to complete.

The four divisions regularly composing the American Eighth army were stationed in Japan at the war's outbreak.

The fall of Pyongyang will inaugurate a rehabilitation campaign that probably will present more complex political and economic problems than did the occupation of Japan in its early phases. Korea also was occupied after the Pacific war but then it did not lie in ruins.

General MacArthur, United Nations military commander, will supervise the early rehabilitation. Economic problems will be enormous. Nearly every city and town along the battle lines was badly damaged during the fury of the fighting. Bridges, highways and railroads all need extensive repair. The limited industrial facilities of the Seoul-Inchon area were hard hit and probably will only limp back into production.

The extent of damage to the more highly developed industrial areas of North Korea can only be guessed. Several key targets however have been scratched off the allied bomb list because they are considered militarily impotent after heavy assaults.

He is leaving immediately for his talk so he can be back in the White House Wednesday.

Mr. Truman was anxious to build up strong support for the spending bill to keep the home front moving after the Korean armistice, and to raise money and to reconstruct Korea.

example to all the Far East, the United States and states want only peace and for the world.

That thought will underlie only his San Francisco talk, the one he will make to the Nations general assembly in York on Oct. 24.

Whatever others may say about the Wake Island move, the President and his exude satisfaction over it.

And while General MacArthur excluded leg outward, they shook hands upon the island.

Some reporters thought and departing the two world "got along famously."

Some reporters thought MacArthur was important turn to Tokyo to keep eyes on operations in Korea.

Constitution to Go to Ballot

Ark. Oct. 16 (AP)—The Supreme court today decided to rule the proposed statewide prohibition act off the general election ballot. A unanimous opinion written by Justice George Rose said the court will not initiate the act. The court said that in such cases the signatures were valid because plaintiffs did not prove fraud. Pafford contended that each page of the petitions (containing up to 50 signatures) was invalid when a duplicate signature appeared on that page. He said that would not leave sufficient names on petitions to initiate the proposal. A total of 19,945 signatures were needed to initiate the proposed act. The temperance league had 53,224 signatures on the petitions. The Supreme court said Pafford contended that names on 1,290 sheets must be disregarded because persons who circulated the petitions "necessarily made false statements in their affidavits verifying the genuineness of the signatures." "On the other hand," the court said, "the x x x (temperance league) rely upon x x (a previous Supreme court decision) to support its contention that it is not enough for the plaintiffs to show that a single signature on a sheet is not genuine; the plaintiffs must go farther, and prove that the canvasser has been guilty of conscious and deliberate frauds."

Little Rock, Oct. 16 (AP)—A proposed statewide prohibition act will be voted on in the Arkansas November 7 election. The Arkansas supreme court today denied a petition to rule the proposed act off the ballot. A suit by Wiley Pafford and Leon Kuhn, Texarkana, attacked the sufficiency of petitions to initiate the proposal, sponsored by the Arkansas Temperance league. The suit charged that duplicate signatures on 1,029 sheets of signatures made the petitions invalid. It also contended that the petitions were filed one day after the deadline. The court overruled both points to hold that the proposal had been properly initiated.

Red Rebels Take Another French Fort

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 18 (UP)—Black-uniformed Viet Minh Communist rebels swarming down from the Chinese Communist border occupied the French Indo-China fortress of Nacham today, throwing open another stretch of border territory along the invasion route from China. The Communist Viet Minh radio said Communist forces "smashed open" the fortress. A French military spokesman said French forces had withdrawn from it Saturday and reached Dongdang, eight miles to the south. He also said a series of blockhouses and watchposts along colonial route four above Dongdang also had been abandoned "without serious fighting." At the same time the spokesman confirmed that part of the civilian population of Langson, nine miles below Dongdang and 17 miles southeast of Nacham, was being evacuated. But the spokesman said they were leaving of "their own free will" and not under military orders. The admission that Nacham had been abandoned coincided with Chinese Nationalist intelligence reports from Formosa that 150,000 Chinese Red troops had massed down on Yunan and Kwangsi borders of Indochina. These reports said that Communist General Chen Keng, who led the Communist victory march southward through China, commanded the Chinese Communist troops. The French forces that evacuated Nacham were remnants of the Cao bang and Thatkhe garrisons farther north. They reached Nacham after a forced march through rugged mountain territory under cover of French planes. The Communists now hold four important French border garrisons—Dongkhe, Cao bang, Thatkhe and Nacham—stretching 50 miles from Northwest to Southeast. They also have knifed open hundreds of square miles of northern Indochina, making it possible for the Communists to swarm back and forth across the border. Observers believed that the Communists might continue their drive in the same direction toward Langson, about 17 miles southeast of Nacham.

led spearheads smashed today toward the flatland approaches of Pyongyang in an armored race for the Red Korean capital.

The last major battle of the war may be close at hand. There was a growing belief in Tokyo military circles that the war would end in a few weeks. But a long mopping-up period may follow.

Racing for the Red capital were the U. S. First Cavalry division—the first into Manila in World War II—and the South Korean first division.

The Americans battled through stubborn resistance Monday in a 12-mile thrust to Simmak, 46 air miles southeast of Pyongyang. The South Koreans, paced by air miles southeast of the Communists, were thrusting air miles southeast of the Communist capital.

Both forces were thrusting through North Korea's mountain backbone which shields Pyongyang on the south and east. But it was a torn and dented shield. Field reports indicated the Red remnants were crumbling rapidly. Resistance was fierce in spots, but sporadic.

AP Correspondent Jack MacBeth, with the South Koreans, said they broke into a run for Pyongyang after changing into Suan.

The U. S. Cavalry troopers ran into their toughest fight two miles north of Nanchongjom, about 10 miles southeast of Simmak and 12 miles north of captured Kumchon.

Although the South Korean column was closest to Pyongyang, it was fighting along a winding mountain road. The first cavalry was banging up the longer main rail and highway route. Its next main objective is Sariwon, 27 road miles west of Simmak and 35 miles south of Pyongyang.

Two other columns were driving toward Pyongyang from more distant points. The U. S. Marine division from the south and the Republic of Korea (ZRK) third division from the east. The ROKs moved along a road twisting across the peninsula from Wonsan on the east coast.

It was the first time the 24th division had been reported in action since it swept up "Heartbreak highway" from the old Pusan beachhead to recapture Taejon, in South Korea.

Units of the 24th division, flown to Korea from placid occupation duty in Japan, were the first Americans hurled against the Red juggernaut, after the June 26 invasion of the South Korean Republic. The 24th fought a series of bitter withdrawals.

The 24th division entered Yonan, just south of parallel 38 and 50 miles northwest of Seoul, after a brief fight. Either the Reds were confused or sought the safety of imprisonment because they fled south toward certain encirclement.

Elsewhere, the only escape for the North Koreans appeared to be north of Pyongyang, on the west coast, and north of Hungnam, on the east coast, the latter is on the heavily bombarded route to Manchuria and Soviet Siberia.

The South Korean capital division was moving northward along that east coast route from captured Yonhung, 30 miles north of Wonsan. Yonhung is 30 miles north of Wonsan. Yonhung is 30 miles south of Hungnam, big chemical center.

In the central sector of the front slanting across the peninsula, the South Korean eighth division seized Koksan after an 18-mile thrust in 12 hours. Koksan is 50 air miles southeast of Pyongyang.

South of parallel 38, ROK troops overwhelmed a large guerrilla force that swooped down from the hills into the east coast port of Samchok. Intelligence officers reported the surviving Reds quit because they had lost confidence in their officers.

Tokyo, Oct. 16 (AP)—Allied troops plunged through the mountains today toward the bombed North Korean capital of Pyongyang and possibly the last major battle of the Korean war.

A South Korean force was only 40 miles away at Suan. Three other forces, including the American First Cavalry division, were less than 50 miles from the Red capital on two roads and 60 miles away on a fourth.

There were signs the Red Korean army was crumbling rapidly. But large units still under the firm control of commissar type officers resisted fiercely at some points.

Military circles in Tokyo freely predicted the war will be over in a few weeks. They expected a campaign to mop up Red army fragments probably will drag throughout the winter.

The high mark of the Allied drive northward is expected to be the chase of fleeing Red troops toward the explosive Manchurian and Siberian borders.

While the four allied columns drove toward Pyongyang, General MacArthur had ample addition troops to throw at the faltering Reds wherever he chose to hit them.

Speculation was rife that MacArthur, back from his historic Wake Island conference Sunday with President Truman, had the signal to throw everything at the remaining Reds.

Prisoners in large numbers were gathered by the advancing troops. The total now held by United Nations forces mounted to 65,000. Some, taken from the Korean 19th division, estimated that 20 per cent of their original number had deserted before going into battle.

At Samchok on the Korean east coast, where an isolated action took place behind the lines, North Korean soldiers quit fighting. American intelligence officers said the Reds had no confidence in their officers.

From a military point of view, confusion and disorganization appeared to be spreading rapidly in the Communist ranks.

One force, dispersed after a brief engagement with the U. S. 24th division near Yonan, 50 miles northwest of Seoul, fled toward the south and certain encirclement.

Escape routes for the Communists were open to the north or Pyongyang in the west and Hungnam on the east coast.

One east coast force, accused of executing 800 South Korean prisoners near Wonsan and Yonhung, raced northward with 100 American prisoners.

A South Korean survivor of the mass execution said he heard the North Koreans plotting to take the American prisoners to Manchuria.

The pattern of fighting over the whole war front was one of spot resistance. At some points the Americans and South Koreans were impeded only by mined roads and broken bridges. At others the North Koreans fought bitterly, then fled into the hills.

Both the South Korean first division at Suan, and the American First Cavalry division, at Nanchongjom were approaching the southern ends of mountain passes that lead to open country beyond.

These days you can't tell from the price tag how much quality a car costs. Ford, for example, is still priced with the lowest... yet in every respect it's in the fine car class. Take its styling, for example; for two years in a row Ford has been the recognized fashion leader.

Like America's finest cars Ford offers you a V-8 engine. No other low-priced car does. Nor does any other car of any price offer you a choice of V-8 or Six engines. And remember, Ford's V-8 costs less than most sixes—Ford's Six costs even less.

Probers Set for Hearings at Chicago

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 —(P)—The senate crime investigating committee moved out of Philadelphia yesterday, leaving behind staff members to probe deeper into racketeering operations in the nation's third largest city.

The committee, headed by Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), will begin hearings at Chicago tomorrow.

The closed hearings at Philadelphia Friday and Saturday produced a dispute centering around Police Superintendent —George F. Richardson.

Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley made public a letter in which he said, Richardson identified Harry (Nig) Rosen as one of the nation's crime kingpins.

The letter stated Philadelphia police were aware of a "persistent rumor which is borne out by some of the known facts" that it was henchman of Rosen and one of his partners who killed gambler Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel.

Samuel H. Rosenberg, Philadelphia's director of public safety, said Richardson denied reports that he identified Rosen before the senate committee as the overlord of this city's numbers racket, or that he said Rosen had tie-ins with other cities.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Virginia Hill Hauser, friend of Siegel, left her fashionable Bar Harbor, Me., home yesterday with her ski-instructor husband, Hermann. Their destination was not known.

It was at the Beverly Hills, Calif., home of Mrs. Hauser in 1947 that Siegel was shot to death. She was in France at the time. Since her marriage to Hauser this year, she has lived in seclusion at Bar Harbor.

Mrs. Hauser told Bar Harbor Police Chief Howard McFarland on Oct. 2 that, although she expects a child, she is ready to accept a subpoena from the senate committee.

Kefauver said he believes "there are a good many points on which she might give us some information." He declined to say what questions his group might ask Mrs. Hauser.

The committee visit to Chicago will be its second this month. After a three-day session there early in October, Kefauver said the crime probes found "strong

Dewey Throws Support to Eisenhower

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 —(P)—Harold E. Stassen, twice an unsuccessful aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, today hailed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's support of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1942 as "real statesmanship."

Stassen now is president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dewey, twice-elected governor of New York and now seeking his third term, said yesterday he would use his "influence" to get Eisenhower nominated as the GOP candidate in 1942.

Dewey was the republican nominee in 1944 and 1948, beating out Stassen both times.

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, said in a statement:

"Governor Dewey showed real statesmanship in his forthright declaration. I am pleased he has taken this step.

"I've wired him my commendation.

"I have long ago expressed and continue to have a very high regard for General Eisenhower."

Stassen declined further comment. He parred a question about whether he would seek the nomination himself in 1952 by saying:

"My statement is my only comment."

He also refused to say whether he, like Dewey, would work for Eisenhower's nomination.

"My statement is my only comment," he said again.

Actually the statement straddles the political fence. It can be interpreted two ways:

1. That Stassen is "pleased" because the New York governor took himself out of the presidential nomination race.

2. That Stassen, is not formally announcing support of Eisenhower as a candidate, but expressing only "a very high regard" for the general, keeps himself in the picture.

ture as a presidential possibility.

Dewey said flatly he would support Eisenhower.

"If I should be re-elected governor and have influence with the New York delegation, I would recommend to them that they support General Eisenhower for President if he would accept the draft," Dewey said.

Speaking here over the NBC television program, "Meet The Press," Dewey again took himself out of a third White House race in the most emphatic terms.

He praised Eisenhower as "a very great world figure, the President of Columbia university, one of the greatest soldiers in our history, a fine educator, a man who really understands the problems of the world."

Dewey, who is running for a third term as governor after first denying he would be a candidate, was asked by Leo Egan of the New York Times if he might like to change his mind on the Presidency in 1952. Dewey has said repeatedly he would not seek the 1952 nomination, after his national defeat in 1944 and 1948.

"I will under no circumstances I can conceive of, or that could possibly exist, accept the nomination for President in 1952," he answered yesterday. "And I doubt if there is any possibility that the situation would ever arise thereafter."

Dewey said he had not asked Eisenhower if he is willing to run, but said "I have listened to some of his speeches, and I certainly should think his philosophy would be in accordance with my own."

Reporters descended on Eisenhower's university home, but the general was in the midst of his 60th birthday celebration and sent word he could not meet them and had no message to relay.

The general has repeatedly denied presidential ambitions. He has opposed both Republican and Democratic hopes for him in 1948. But since then, several of his major speeches have had political subjects — with apparently Republican overtones.

The precept "look for the woman" is based on the fact that women play an indirect or direct part in many crimes, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Israel Is in Midst of First Cabinet Crisis

Jerusalem, Oct. 16 —(P)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion tried to form a new government today in the hope of solving Israel's first cabinet crisis since the birth of the state in May, 1948.

Ben-Gurion resigned last night after three religious bloc members in his outgoing cabinet, told him they were withdrawing from the government because they did not like a recent cabinet change proposed in the face of Israel's financial plight.

Later President Chaim Weizmann — after consulting all party leaders — asked Ben-Gurion to form a new cabinet for presentation to the knesset, Israel's parliament. The knesset reconvenes here today after a two-month recess.

If the knesset refuses to accept a new government under Ben-Gurion new elections may be called. The present cabinet continues on a caretaker basis.

The task facing the premier is not an easy one. His Mapai party controls only one-third of the votes in parliament and he needs the support of other groups to retain power.

The religious bloc members who quit yesterday represent a coalition of the very devout, orthodox and conservative members of the parliament.

The trio held the posts of religion, social welfare and interior. They opposed Ben-Gurion's recent proposal to appoint Jack Gering, a non-party member and financial expert, as commerce minister to help out with the industrial crisis. The bloc contended the post should be filled by a conservative, one of its number.

The religious bloc also had been pushing for incorporation of more laws on observance of the Sabbath, on marriage and divorce and on other religious matters.

About 1,500,000,000 pounds of fats and oils are available for export from the U. S. each year.

DOROTHY DIX Seeks Mate

Dear Miss Dix: I am 27 and a discouraged and disgusted young man in so far as the opposite sex is concerned. I wish to marry, but the cattiness, the fickleness, the jealousy, freeze up my romantic longings. While there is a yearning in my heart for the company of the opposite sex, always I ask myself these questions: How and where can I find a girl who is pretty, though not necessarily a beauty? Intelligent, but not a walking encyclopedia. Charming and good-mannered. Faithful, a good dresser, but not a dress maniac. Economical, but not miserly. Enjoys a good joke, but is not a teller of off-colored stories. Willing to share some of my recreational interests, such as sports, dances, music, concerts, etc. Has a desire to become a good wife and companion. Can you tell me where I can find such a girl?

HESITANT BACHELOR

Answer: Certainly I can. She is right under your nose. Across the street. Or maybe she works next to you in an office. Likely as not you went to school with her, and have always known her ever since you were rompers.

Looking in Wrong Place
And the only reason you haven't found her is because you are either blind, or you are one of those men who never know a good thing when they see it, or because you have looked for the right sort of girl in the wrong sort of place.

Your list of requirements in a wife is reasonable, and if you have not found a girl who measures up to your standard it must be because you have got so panicky and pessimistic that you don't trust your own judgement and eyesight. Most girls are pretty these days, either by the grace of God or through having enough gumption, to learn how to dress and comb their hair and make up their complexions.

Also, most girls are far more intelligent than men suspect. Surely you don't have to get out a lantern to search for a girl who is charming and has good manners. That's part of every girl's stock in trade.

Virtually every girl is faithful to a man who will let her know of the girls who look like her. hint from Paris have made her own clothes. If there is a living who doesn't enjoy life and wouldn't like to be to a man who would take her to the theatre and to dance concerts, etcetera, I have heard of her.

So my advice to you is to up your courage, stick your nose in the grabbag and draw out a prize, since you are too scared to look about for the kind of a girl you want.

Dear Miss Dix: My marriage life has been very unhappy. marriage has been such a hell well for them, and for the years ago, except that the children and I felt I should by them. They are now and on their own. I have been a good father and have provided for them and far more than I think that I have done. I want to be a good father and I want to be a good husband. ## Bears, Browns Leaders for League Title

New York, Oct. 16 —(AP)— If the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns wind up fighting it out for the National Football League title, a couple of grid guys named Johnny Lujack and Otto Graham can take the bows.

Yesterday, Lujack led the Bears into a tie with the idle New York Yanks for first place in the National conference as his team walked the Green Bay Packers, 28-14.

Graham again stood out in the Browns' 34-24 victory over the Chicago Cardinals. The triumph gave Cleveland the lead in the American conference.

The Browns supplanted the previously unbeaten New York Giants, who took a 17-6 drubbing from the Pittsburgh Steelers.

In other contests, the Los Angeles Rams edged the Detroit Lions, 30-28, and Philadelphia's Eagles downed still-winless Baltimore, 24-14.

Lujack scored 22 points on three touchdowns and four conversions. This put Johnny at the top of the league's scorers with 55 points for five games, or five above Donk Walker of Detroit.

Cleveland earned its fourth triumph in five starts by clicking for 17 points in the last period. Graham's contribution was a touchdown and 22 passes completed in 35 tries for 308 yards.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 16 —(AP)— Somebody said it wasn't a real fox which had been sighted in Yankee stadium; it was just the spirit of Casey Stengel, a very foxy guy, lingering to savor some more

World Series enjoyment. So, in the interests of accurate reporting, we sneaked through an unguarded

turnstile after the Army-Michigan crowd departed Saturday an interview. We found Mr. Fox

loiling comfortably in a left field box, marked by a brass plate as property of the Uplift Foundation

Garment Co., and dining sumptuously on leftover hot dogs.

"Sit down and have a snack," said Mr. Fox, dusting off a seat with his tail. "Hope you don't mind if I eat while I talk. There's nothing a fox likes as much as biting a dog.

"So you want to know what I'm doing here. Oh, I just drop in no-and den — that's a joke, son.

"Really, I just dropped in a couple of days ago to do a little scouting for Black. Sort of a family matter, you know — he's Red

Black, I'm a red fox.

"Have you noticed how well

Red's coaching family is doing?

It was one of his ex-assistants

(you might call him a kid brother)

Stu Holcomb, who knocked off Notre Dame last week. Then another,

Andy Gustafson, took care of Purdue. Bob Woodruff and Herman Hickman are doing okay, too, and

I'll bet Sid Gillman's Cincinnati

boys score on Kentucky."

We interrupted to comment on

Mr. Fox's evident interest in football coaches.

"Oh, sure," he chuckled. "We have a lot in common. I used to live over in Joisey and every Saturday the peapack hunt would take after me with a lot of horses and hounds. Reminded me a lot of the alumni going after a booging coach Saturday night — only alumni holler a lot worse things than 'yolcks' and 'tally ho.'"

"It was another red-head, Larry

MacPhail, who brought me over here. He wanted to stage a fox hunt — as a promotion stunt one night. ... Had all the stadium club members dressed up in pink coats and riding breeches and boots. ...

but I fooled them, I didn't go near the bar and they never could find me."

"But how about this game this afternoon?" we broke in. "Did your scouting help Black?"

Sugar Ray to Fight Rindone at Boston

Boston, Oct. 16 (AP)— Welterweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson will meet Joe Rindone, Boston middleweight, in a 15 round bout tonight at the Boston Garden.

The sponsoring Callahan A. C.

advised that Robinson's middleweight championship claim recognized only in Pennsylvania, would be at stake.

Rindone, a rugged and courageous brawler, appears doomed for an early knockout. Robinson is eager for a crack at Jake LaMotta's middleweight crown.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York, Oct. 16 —(AP)— Army and Oklahoma were over the big humps in their schedules today and headed toward new perfect seasons that would provoke a hot dispute over the national football championship.

Southern Methodist, the other member of the college sport's terrific trio, faces a lot of possible lumps in a conference that prides itself on knocking over the favorite.

As a starter, the Mustangs meet the defending Southwestern champion, Rice, Saturday night in Houston. The unbeaten, united Owls, who smothered

SMU, 41-27, last year, could do it again.

Meanwhile, Army's Black

Knights, having mauled Michigan,

27-6, with an awesome display of might, should expect no trouble

until they run against Stanford

Nov. 18 in the next-to-last game of the season.

Pennsylvania comes up Nov. 4 for the West Pointers but the Quakers should offer little resistance for Earl Black's powerful hard-hitting team. Army will meet de-emphasizing Harvard Saturday.

Oklahoma, 14-13 last gasp

winner over Texas in Dallas' Cotton bowl, has no other assignment that looks anywhere near as tough.

Kansas, an old Big Seven rival, could prove cantankerous No. 11

as could Oklahoma A. and M. in the final game. Kansas State furnishes the opposition this week.

Both Army and Oklahoma are working on modern football fantasy streaks of invincibility.

The Sooners have won 24

straight games — tops in the land.

The Cadets have gone 23 games without a setback but a couple of Swinging into the last half of October, here's how sectional strength measures up, in approximate order:

East — Army, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Princeton.

Midwest — Oklahoma A. and M.,

Notre Dame, Ohio State, Wisconsin.

South — Kentucky, Vanderbilt,

Clemson, Maryland, Tennessee.

Southwest — Southern Methodist,

Rice and Texas.

Far West — California, Stanford, Washington.

Of those, all are unbeaten and untied except Penn. Notre Dame,

Ohio State, Maryland and Tennessee, which have dropped a game apiece.

Army, voted the nation's No. 1 team last week after the fall of Notre Dame, got its best test in the game with a roused Michigan at Yankee stadium.

For more than a half the future

generals were played off their feet

but, with Sophomore Fullback Al

Pollard in the most dramatic role,

they struck for three touchdowns in five minutes of the last half to turn the game into a rout.

Oklahoma subdued a favored

Texas in the fading minutes

when Billy Vessels smashed 11

yards to a touchdown and Tackle

Jim Weatherall kicked the important extra point.

The Lone Star state's pride was assuaged in the night half of the inter-state doubleheader at Dallas when Southern Methodist,

Bobcats Start Conference Play Friday

The Hope Bobcats open up conference play here Friday night against the Razorbacks from Texarkana. From there the Hope lads play four loops foes in a row.

Last Friday night the Bobcats lost to Malvern but the fans didn't mind too much. In fact they were proud of their Bobcats who actually had the game won until the last 30 seconds, then tossed it away.

Malvern got every break that a team could possibly want. First a Hope defender batted a pass right into the hands of a Malvern guard who was finally stopped on the Bobcat 33. The visitors failed to gain. Hope took over but a fourth down punt was blocked.

Malvern couldn't go but interference was ruled on a pass play and the Bobcats assessed 15 yards to the one-foot line from where Malvern went over. That was the game.

The luckless Bobcats who haven't clicked very well previously seemed to have found themselves and literally outplayed the much-favored visitors most of the way. It was a hard fought contest and furnished the fans with plenty of thrills.

Friday night's foe is also a luckless outfit which was stomped by Camden who is rated about the only team that has a chance in district play against Magnolia.

The teams seemed to be about evenly matched and a close game is in prospect.
